Wild Comfort: Contemporary Homes in the Wilderness showcases 30 houses in some of the world's most unspoiled natural settings. Here, luxurious, modern, and cozy interiors offer sanctuary and shelter within the vast wilderness. Designed by leading architects, these homes range from minimalist cabins to luxury houses. Perched on rocky archipelagos, enshrouded in forests, and nestled in sun-scorched deserts, these homes are exposed to the elements. Yet they are masterfully designed to endure the harsh conditions and offer warm, comfortable spaces for residents to feel immersed and protected within nature. Each residence is illustrated with stunning colour photography and accompanied by an engaging narrative that takes readers through the design of the house—how the architecture and interiors respond to the context and climate and forge a deep connection with the natural environment. As architecture in harmony in nature, these homes foster a dialogue between the tamed and untamed, between comfort and wilderness.
